

The Confident Leader™

Gain the Confidence You Want as a Leader

Leading other people can be a daunting and even frightening experience.

Faced with strong-willed personalities, little to no authority, demanding bosses, under-performing team members, short deadlines and long hours, many managers quickly realize they've never been trained to deal with the realities of leadership. Anyone who has ever led a team has probably asked:

“Can I really lead this team without making a fool of myself?”

This lack of confidence can cause high stress, and tentative performance.

It doesn't have to be that way!

The Confident Leader™ workshop will provide you with critical leadership skills to boost your confidence and improve yourself as a leader so you'll get the results you are striving for.

Two days of intense exploration of your responsibilities as a leader:

Day 1:

An Introduction to Leadership

Basic skills every leader needs to know; like what leadership really is, effectively communicating and establishing a relationship with your team.

Know Yourself

Gain insight into yourself and your interactions with others by using a revolutionary behavioral profiling system. You'll gain insight into what makes you tick, what motivates you, how you deal with stress, and what jobs and activities you like most or find frustrating.

Day 2:

Develop Your Leadership Philosophy

Your leadership philosophy is a written document that describes what you believe as a leader, your vision for the team and the team's mission. Set the stage for the two most important characteristics followers want in their leaders, credibility and trust.

Accountability

This topic often trips up leaders at all experience levels. Learn to “own” your team's results, no matter what. Face the reality that leaders are often faced with broken promises and violated expectations. Learn the causes of these situations and how to handle them. Hint: it's not always about them!
